The new OSHA CFR 29 Part 1926 Cranes and Derricks in Construction Final Rule requires that all crane operators be certified when operating construction cranes.

The U.S. Department of Labor's Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) released a historic new standard, addressing the use of cranes and derricks in construction and replacing a decades old standard. The significant number of fatalities associated with the use of cranes and derricks in construction and the considerable technological advances in equipment since the publication of the old rule, issued in 1971, led the Labor Department to undertake this rulemaking.

- The rule becomes effective 90 days after August 9, 2010, the date the final rule was published in the Federal Register. Certain provisions have delayed effective dates ranging from 1 to 4 years.
- The final rule was published on August 9, 2010 by the Federal Register, and can be found at http://www.osha.gov/FedReg\_oshapdf/FED20100809.pdf.

1. Does the final rule require crane operators to be qualified or certified?

Yes. This final rule requires operators of most types of cranes to be qualified or certified under one of the methods set forth in § 1926.1427. Employers have up to four years to ensure that their operators are qualified or certified, unless they are operating in a state or city that has operator requirements.
